Office Playbook — Step-by-Step for Excellent Customer Service

For Jessica's office use only • Built around Experian • Not for clients

The service promise (what “excellent” means here): every client always knows (1) what was done, (2) what happens next, and (3) when they will hear from you again. Hit these standards every time:

- Reply within 1 business day to every client message — even if the reply is “still waiting, next update on [date].”
- Welcome message the same day the file is complete (template below).
- Audit delivered within 5 business days of a complete file.
- Round mailed within 3 business days of the client approving the audit.
- Progress update every 30 days, on schedule, even when there is no news yet.
- Results explained within 3 business days of a bureau letter arriving — in plain language, never just forwarding the letter.
- Bill monthly, after the work, through Square with the 3.5% service fee — and send the progress update with the bill so the client sees what they paid for.
- Closing summary in writing at the end of every program, with a maintenance plan.

The Master Workflow — Step by Step

When	Step	Service touchpoint
Day 0	Lead / consult. Ask about goals, explain process + honest timeline (4-6 months), fees, and the client rules (Agreement §4). No promises about removals or scores.	Send the Forms Packet after the call.
Day 0-3	File complete. Forms 1-4 signed + ID, SS card, proof of address, Experian access. No documents = no start; the start date is the complete-file date.	Same-day welcome message when complete.
Day 1-5	Pull reports in Experian. Save the Experian report PDF to the client folder. Note: Experian shows Experian data — anything that must also be disputed with Equifax/TransUnion gets its own letters.	Tell the client reports are pulled and audit is in progress.

By Day 5	Credit audit. Mark every negative item: error / outdated / unverifiable / accurate. Write the item-by-item action plan (in the package). Bill the $49 Action Plan fee through Square only AFTER it is delivered (waived into Basic/Essential if the client continues). Basic Plan ($99 one-time): Action Plan plus the first dispute round (up to 5 items) — charge only AFTER Round 1 is sent and copies are delivered to the client.	Audit review call or message: walk the plan, client approves disputes.
Within 3 days of approval	Round 1. Disputes to Experian (online at experian.com/disputes or mail: Experian, P.O. Box 4500, Allen, TX 75013) with ID + address proof enclosed. Direct letters to creditors/collectors where the error is theirs. Log everything on the Tracking Sheet; keep copies.	Same-day message: what was disputed, where, and the 30-45 day clock.
Days 30-45	Results. Watch Experian dispute status; collect bureau letters (client must send theirs within 5 days — Agreement rule). Score/report changes logged.	Results review within 3 business days, plain language.
Monthly	Round 2 / 3 as needed. Re-dispute still-wrong items with new evidence, method-of-verification requests, or CFPB complaint when a bureau/creditor will not fix a real error.	30-day progress update (template) + Square monthly bill AFTER the month's work, 3.5% service fee included at checkout.
Final	Completion. Pull a fresh Experian report, compare start vs. finish, write the closing summary + maintenance plan (keep balances <10-30%, pay on time, check Experian every month). Invite a review/referral only after the summary is delivered.	Closing call + written summary.

Using Experian — Office Notes

- Client keeps their own Experian account and password — you never store passwords. Pull reports together on a call, or have the client send the report PDF.
- Experian disputes: online dispute center (experian.com/disputes) is fastest and gives a status page; mail keeps a paper trail — use certified mail for stubborn items.
- Experian investigates only the Experian report. An item can be deleted by Experian and still show on Equifax/TransUnion — check all three at audit and at completion.
- A credit freeze or fraud alert can slow disputes — note it in the file if the client has one, and tell the client before disputing.
- Experian Boost adds utility/rent-type payments to the Experian file — optional for the client; never present it as repair, and never promise it will raise a score.
- Save everything in one folder per client: ClientName / 01 Forms / 02 Reports / 03 Letters Sent / 04 Bureau Results / 05 Updates & Bills.

Templates — Messages (Copy, Fill the Blanks)

Welcome (same day file is complete): “Hi [Name], your file is complete and your start date is [date]. I’m pulling your Experian report now; your written audit will be ready by [date]. After you approve it, Round 1 goes out within 3 business days. You’ll hear from me at least every 30 days, and sooner whenever a bureau answers.”

Round sent: “Round [1] went out today to [Experian / creditor]. Items disputed: [list]. Bureaus have about 30 days to investigate, so results should arrive by [date]. Please send me any letter you receive within 5 days — a photo is fine.”

30-day progress update: “Hi [Name], your monthly update: Done this month — [disputes sent / letters / calls]. Results so far — [deleted / updated / still investigating, with dates]. Your scores/reports — [what changed]. Next — [Round 2 on (date) / waiting until (date)]. Your part — keep every bill on time, balances under 30%, no new credit applications. This month’s Square invoice covers work already done (a 3.5% service fee is added at checkout).”

Results call opener: “Good news first, then what’s still pending, then our next move...” — always end with the next date the client will hear from you.

Client broke a rule (new late payment / new application): “I saw [item]. I’m not going to scold you — but I do have to be honest: this can [delay the dispute / lower the report] because [reason]. Here’s how we handle it: [plan]. Going forward the rule matters because the bureaus look at recent behavior.”

Client wants to stop: “You can stop anytime — that’s in your agreement. You would owe only for work already done. Before you decide, here is exactly where things stand: [summary]. If you still want to stop, send it to me in writing and I’ll close the file and send your closing summary.”

Templates — Dispute Letters

Letter 1 — Experian, Round 1 (mail or paste into the online dispute):

[Date] • Experian, P.O. Box 4500, Allen, TX 75013

Re: Dispute — [Full legal name], DOB [], Last 4 SSN [], [Current address]

Dear Experian: I am disputing the following items on my credit report because they are [inaccurate / incomplete / not mine / outdated — pick the true reason per item]: [Creditor, account #, reason, what the correct information is]. Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, please investigate, contact the furnisher, and delete or correct any information that cannot be verified, and send me an updated report and a description of how the investigation was conducted. Enclosed: photo ID, proof of address [and supporting documents]. — [Client signature, printed name, address, phone]

Letter 2 — Round 2 / Method of Verification: same header; state the item was “verified” but is still incorrect, give the NEW fact or document, and ask Experian to describe the procedure used to verify (FCRA §611(a)(7)) and to delete the item if it cannot be verified with competent evidence.

Letter 3 — Direct to creditor/furnisher: dispute the reporting with the company that furnished it (FCRA §623), giving account #, the exact error, the correction requested, and enclosures; ask them to correct with every bureau they report to.

Letter 4 — Collection validation: within 30 days of a collector’s first notice, request validation of the debt (FDCPA §809) and that collection and reporting pause until the debt is validated. Never admit the debt is owed in this letter.

Letter 5 — Goodwill (client sends, for a late payment on an otherwise good account): short, honest, takes responsibility, explains the one-time cause, asks — as a courtesy — for removal of the late mark. Never guarantee this works.

Rules for every letter: client’s own information only, one clear reason per item, copies of ID/address proof enclosed, keep a copy + mailing date on the Tracking Sheet, never dispute an accurate item as “not mine,” and never sign the client’s name without the signed Authorization (Form 3) in the file.

Completion Checklist + Compliance Reminders

- ☐ Fresh Experian report pulled and compared to the start report, item by item.
- ☐ Closing summary written: what was deleted/corrected, what remains (and why), score change if known.
- ☐ Maintenance plan given: pay on time, balances under 10-30%, check Experian monthly, no new credit without a plan.
- ☐ Final Square bill sent only for work already performed; file closed in writing.
- ☐ Ask for a testimonial/review only now — never in exchange for results.
 - Never charge before work is done, promise a removal or a score, or tell a client to lie or create a new identity/CPN — that is illegal.
 - Keep every agreement, letter, and result at least 2 years.
 - Before taking paying clients: confirm your Texas Credit Services Organization registration and surety bond are in place (Finance Code Ch. 393) and put the registration number on the Agreement — do not skip this step.
 - Advertising must match this playbook: no “guaranteed,” no set score promises, no before/after score screenshots from clients without written permission.
