Step-by-Step Package — Done-For-You or Do-It-Yourself Kit

Jessica Alvarez • San Antonio, Texas • Serving clients across Texas

Bad credit is not forever — but fixing it takes a process, not a promise. This package explains exactly how the repair process works, what a client must submit to start, what it costs for Jessica to do the work for them, and what the do-it-yourself kit costs if they would rather do it themselves.

How Credit Repair Works — Step by Step

Step 1 — Free look / intake. Client completes the intake and signs the written service agreement (required by law) with the full disclosures, including the right to cancel within 3 business days.

Step 2 — Pull all 3 credit reports. Reports are pulled from Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion (for example through AnnualCreditReport.com or a monitoring service the client already uses).

Step 3 — Credit audit. Every account is reviewed line by line: late payments, collections, charge-offs, inquiries, balances/utilization, and anything that looks wrong, outdated, duplicated, or unverifiable. The client gets a written action plan.

Step 4 — Client picks what to dispute. The client reviews the audit and confirms which items to challenge. Only inaccurate, incomplete, outdated, or unverifiable information is disputed — accurate debts are not "erased."

Step 5 — Dispute Round 1. Dispute letters are prepared and mailed to the bureaus (and, where appropriate, the creditor/collector) with the client's ID and address documents enclosed. Copies of everything are kept.

Step 6 — Wait for results — about 30-45 days. By law the bureau generally has 30 days to investigate. Results letters are reviewed with the client when they arrive.

Step 7 — Dispute Rounds 2 and 3. Items that come back "verified" but are still wrong are re-disputed with new information, method-of-verification requests, or escalated to a complaint (CFPB) when a bureau or creditor will not correct a real error.

Step 8 — Build positive credit while repairing. Lower card balances below 30% (ideally below 10%) of limits, pay every account on time, do not open new credit during repair unless advised, and consider a secured card or credit-builder loan if the file is thin.

Step 9 — Final review & maintenance plan. Final reports are pulled, results are summarized in writing, and the client leaves with simple monthly habits to keep the progress.

What a Client Must Submit to Start

Nothing starts until these are in — this protects both the client and the business:

- Signed service agreement with the required federal (CROA) and Texas disclosures — signature and date.
- Government photo ID — driver's license or state ID (copy, front).
- Social Security card copy — bureaus require it to match the file to the right person.
- Proof of address — a utility bill, bank statement, or lease dated within the last 60 days showing the client's name and current address.
- Access to all 3 credit reports — client pulls them, or shares login/report PDFs from their monitoring service.
- Any letters they already received — collection notices, bureau results, or court papers, if they have them.
- Payment method on file for monthly billing — billed after each month's work is done (see Fees).

Fees — Done-For-You (Jessica Does the Work)

Suggested fees — billed after the work is performed, never before, as the law requires for credit repair services.

Service	Fee	What's included
Credit Audit & Action Plan	$49 one-time	Full 3-bureau audit and a written, item-by-item action plan. Charged only after the audit is delivered. Credited toward a monthly plan if the client continues within 14 days.
Basic Plan — Action Plan + 1st dispute	$99 one-time	Everything in the Audit & Action Plan (the $49 is included, not charged twice), plus the first dispute round done for you: together you pick up to 5 priority items, dispute letters are sent to Experian (and to the creditor/collector when the error is theirs) with ID and address proof, you receive copies of everything, and the results are reviewed with you when Experian answers (about 30 days). Charged after the first dispute is sent and copies are delivered.
Essential Repair — monthly	$89 / month	Month-to-month. Audit, dispute rounds (up to 3 rounds), copies of all letters, results review after each round, and a monthly progress update. Billed at the end of each month worked. Cancel anytime.
Full Repair & Coaching — monthly	$129 / month	Everything in Essential, plus monthly 1:1 coaching: budget and utilization plan, creditor/goodwill letters, CFPB complaint help when needed, and a maintenance plan at the end. Most clients need 4-6 months. Billed monthly after work is done.

Example: a client on Full Repair for 5 months pays $5 \times $129 = \645 total, paid month by month — never all upfront.

Fees — Do-It-Yourself Kit

DIY Credit Repair Kit — $49 one-time. For clients who want to do the work themselves with the same system:

- The full step-by-step guide (this process, in plain language).
- Fill-in dispute letter templates for the bureaus, creditors, and collectors (Rounds 1–3).
- The client start checklist — ID, proof of address, and how to pull all 3 reports free.
- A tracking sheet for dates mailed, deadlines (30/45 days), and bureau results.
- Credit-building habits sheet: utilization targets, payment timing, and what NOT to do during repair.

The kit is a digital download (PDF + templates). It does not include Jessica disputing for the client, coaching calls, or reviewing bureau results — clients who want that choose a done-for-you plan above. Kit buyers may credit the $49 toward a done-for-you plan within 30 days.

Honest Terms — Read Before Signing Up

- No guarantees. No one can legally promise to remove accurate information or raise a score by a set amount. Results depend on the bureaus, creditors, and the client's own payment habits.
- You can do this yourself for free. Every client has the legal right to dispute their own credit reports at no cost — the fees above pay for Jessica's time, system, letters, tracking, and coaching.
- Right to cancel. The client may cancel the service agreement within 3 business days for a full refund of any amount paid, as federal law provides.
- No upfront fees. Fees are charged only after the service they pay for has been fully performed.
- Texas clients: services are provided under the Texas Credit Services Organization Act; the written agreement given to every client before work begins contains the full required disclosures and registration information.
- Separate business. Credit Repair Services is a separate business from Southern Oak Financial & Wellness. It is not part of Southern Oak's SSA, medication assistance, or life insurance services.

To start: send the signed agreement and the start documents listed above. Questions — ask before you sign. No pressure, no promises we cannot keep.
