How the class runs

- 0–5 min — Welcome. Who you are, one line about your story, and the honesty line: “I am not an attorney and there is no guarantee of approval — tonight is about understanding the steps.”
- 5–12 min — What SSI is. SSI is a monthly payment for a child or adult with a disability and limited income. How it is different from SSDI (work credits). Medicaid often comes with SSI in Texas.
- 12–20 min — Who can qualify. Two parts: the medical part (SSA's disability rules for children) and the money part (income and what the family owns — parents' income counts for a child under 18; the $2,000 resource rule). Plain words, one example family.
- 20–26 min — The papers to gather. Birth certificate, Social Security card, medical records and doctor names, school records and IEP/504, proof of income and bank accounts. Tell them: gathering first makes the application faster.
- 26–30 min — After you apply. The interview, the wait, keep every letter, watch the mail — deadlines are real. If denied: you have 60 days to appeal, and they should email you right away to be connected with help.
- 30–45 min — Questions. Answer what you can. For anything personal, say: “That one deserves a real look — book the free consultation and we will go through your family's picture together.”

The close (one minute, soft)

“If you want help with your own child's road, the first consultation is free — the link is in the chat. And if your child needs a full plan, that is what I build. Thank you for spending your evening learning for your child.”

After the class

- Email everyone who RSVP'd: thank-you, the book link, and next month's class topic.
- Count: how many came, how many booked. That count is your marketing report.
- Follow-up email (copy-paste): “Thank you for coming to SSI Basics. If you would like to talk about your own child, your first consultation is free: southernoakfw.org/book — Jessica”
